Floods Evict Texans

Waters Begin to Ebb After Driving 2,500 From Coastal Homes; Rain Still Falling

ROBSTOWN, Tex. (AP) — Floodwaters from 10 days of cloudbursts receded slightly today at Robstown and Sinton on the swamped lower Texas coast after driving some 2,500 persons from their homes.

But scattered showers still pelted the flat coastal plain, and the weather bureau forecast more rain.

More than 200 miles inland, six inches of rain fell today on Uvalde. Highways leading north and south from the city were closed by high water. The Loena River, which flows through Uvalde, spilled water into several streets.

At Robstown, 17 miles west of Corpus Christi, at least two thousand persons spent a third day in emergency shelter. Constable Ben Bennett reported water receding slightly in residential sections but "about the same" downtown.

Carroll Keach, Robstown newsman, said water receded slightly overnight in residential sections but the business district remained flooded.

Constable Bennett said it would take two or three days for water to drain if no more rain fell. From the air, the area around Robstown resembled a vast lake.

The south Texas flood was no great danger to life because the water rose slowly. It spread over vast areas and was trapped behind drainage ditch levees, railroad embankments and other obstructions. Draining was slow.

Flooding here began Saturday when an embankment softened by 8½ inches of rain in 36 hours gave way, flooding much of the town. Constable Ben A. Bennett said "easily 2,000" had been driven from their homes and calls for evacuation were coming in all the time as water crept higher.

At Kingsville, 40 miles southwest of Corpus Christi, about 60 families, possibly 300 persons, were still sheltered after high water Thursday and Friday.

There had been no reported loss of life, but property damages continued to rise. In many south Texas homes water was more than three feet deep.

Mayor Dudley Dunlap warned Robstown residents yesterday their municipal water supply was contaminated.

The Robstown water receded only a few inches yesterday. Then rainfall up to 8 inches fell on higher ground west of the city. The runoff built up a lake outside the Robstown dikes that was up to 3 feet deep last night. It covered 8 square miles.

Sinton had a 7-inch cloudburst in less than 5 hours yesterday, making a total of almost 20 inches since Thursday. About one-fourth of the town was under water.

On the upper Texas coast at Bay City, 80 miles southwest of Houston, 10.23 inches of rain had fallen since Saturday. Streets were flooded with eight inches of water measured in two downtown stores. Houston had 4.19 inches of rain since Friday night. More rain was forecast.

Dislikes Exemptions From US Sales Tax On Manufactured Items

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Charles R. Right Jr. of the National Association of Manufacturers, which advocates a uniform federal sales tax on manufactured articles, says there should be no exemptions from such a levy.

Asked on an NBC radio-television program yesterday whether children's clothing might not be exempt, Right replied: "Any exemption is a dangerous step. You can't open the door to any exemptions if you are going to produce the revenue needed."

Slight said NAF favors a uniform flat rate of 4 or 5 percent on all manufactured goods, to replace the varying excise taxes on various goods. Present schedules exempting many articles and taxing others up to 20 percent, he said, are discriminatory.

Drown In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Five persons were drowned when a truck carrying 30 villagers plunged into a river near Sendai, northern Honshu Sunday, the newspaper Asahi reported today.

One is still missing and four others were injured.

Governor Did Not Envoke State Power At Strike Deadline

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, the man who set a deadline for settlement of the strike of Missouri employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., purposely let the deadline time pass last night without taking his threatened action.

Deaths of 17 Pennsylvanians, 15 in Philadelphia, were attributed to the rule Sunday and the heat.

Some communities faced serious water shortages for domestic consumption as a result of brassy, rainless skies; many banned use of water for sprinkling and automobile washing.

Lawns burned up, trees and crops suffered, and the dryness of vegetation posed the threat of grass and brush fires in rural areas.

Telephone Strike Ends Today as Operators Go Back to Resume Positions at 8 o'clock

"Ma Bell's Children" in Sedalia returned to work shortly before 8 a.m. Monday after differences between the telephone workers union CWA-CIO and the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. had been settled.

The return was orderly with the employees happy to return to their jobs and the supervisors, who have been keeping the system in operation, happy to be relieved of the terrific pressure they have been under since the strike started.

Agreements were reached at 7:20 a.m. between the union and the company and word was flashed quickly over the long distance lines to the strike leaders, in the striking communities, to have their personnel ready to return to work at 8 a.m.

Here in Sedalia a mass meeting had been called for Monday morning early and before the time of the meeting and mass picketing of the local telephone office, nearly 100-percent membership was on hand. The word came through the strike had been settled and the girls who were there were notified to return to their duties and be ready to take over their positions as the 8 o'clock shift began.

The girls began going to the telephone company before 8 a.m. and service was restored to normalcy at the set time. A union spokesman, in remarking of the strike, said, "I feel our people have been orderly throughout the 12 days the strike was in progress. We point with pride the manner in which our strike activities were handled here and certainly we are sorry the strike had to happen at this particular time, especially during fair week."

"Everything was orderly in Sedalia, no violence, no destruction of property," a company spokesman said this morning. "The Union piceted in an orderly manner, and they like us feel proud that Sedalia has group of people with the telephone company who are ladies and gentlemen."

The telephone company is sorry for the inconvenience of the strike, but the public was most cooperative during these trying days. There were but few complaints, and they were in great minority, because of the service due to the strike. With it over, service has resumed to normal and we want to thank the people for their cooperation in holding their calls to a minimum, so emergencies could be handled," the company representative said.

Rollo E. Singleton, secretary of the State Fair, complimented the telephone company supervisors for the way service was handled with the fair grounds, and also paid tribute to the union members for the manner in which they acted.

Agreements Reached At 6:20 a. m. Today

ST. LOUIS (AP) — In settling the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. strike, negotiators today reached a compromise on a disputed contract clause designed to prevent "quicke" strikes.

The new contract provision provides the CIO Communications Workers or its representatives "will not order or sanction work stoppage or slowdown" over a grievance while it is subjected to arbitration or grievance procedure.

The union said it does not consider the new provision a "no-strike" clause, a label it applied to an earlier proposal by the company.

The clause reads:

"The company and the union recognize their responsibility in the interests of the public and the employees to avoid interruptions in telephone service. Accordingly they will process promptly employee complaints and grievances which are subject to handling under the grievance procedures for the purpose of avoiding interruptions of telephone service to the public and economic loss to employees from work stoppages."

Accordingly they will process promptly employee complaints and grievances which are subject to handling under the grievance procedures for the purpose of avoiding interruptions of telephone service to the public and economic loss to employees from work stoppages.

"Any employee complaint or grievance which is subject to handling under the grievance procedures shall be presented and heard promptly in accordance with the provisions of those procedures and the arbitration procedures, where applicable."

"As to those employee grievances which are subject to arbitration, the union, its officers, or representatives will not order or sanction a work stoppage or slowdown while the matter is being processed through the grievance procedures."

One year ago today here high 91, low 70. Two years ago high 94, low 75.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 73; 94 at 1 p.m. and 96 at 2 p.m.

Dry Summer Keeps Setting Records Daily

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The August 1953 heat wave probably will not soon be forgotten. Records written under a stifling air blanket reaching from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Coast should take care of that.

Every day brings new records, and the Weather Bureau forecast hints if any change through Tuesday. This is a distressing outlook for eastern United States, where 90-degree plus temperatures were the rule Sunday and the heat beat.

Deaths of 17 Pennsylvanians, 15 in Philadelphia, were attributed to the rule Sunday and the heat beat.

Some communities faced serious water shortages for domestic consumption as a result of brassy, rainless skies; many banned use of water for sprinkling and automobile washing.

The long hot, dry spell—it has been eight consecutive days of 90 degrees or higher in Chicago—apparently has directly caused little loss of life. Only Pennsylvania reported heat deaths Sunday.

Chicago police and Fire Department rescue squads treated 38 persons overcome by the heat—25 of Hundreds of thousands of persons swarmed to the beaches seeking relief;

Aug. 30 all-time temperature records were set by the dozens.

Nor was relief in sight. Weather Bureau in Chicago said it might be a bit cooler in the northern tip of New England today, and temperatures may drop into the 80s in northern portions of Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Otherwise, the forecast was "Fair and continued hot." Possible brief showers in Lower Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Western Illinois and Wisconsin were expected only to add the further discomfort of humidity.

The long hot, dry spell—it has been eight consecutive days of 90 degrees or higher in Chicago—apparently has directly caused little loss of life. Only Pennsylvania reported heat deaths Sunday.

It was Detroit's and New York's second consecutive record temperature for the date. It's been 90 or above in Detroit for six days. Cincinnati now has had eight consecutive days of 90-degree temperatures.

The Weather Bureau said this low rate of human casualties was due to low humidity.

New Aug. 30 heat records set Sunday included: Washington 99.3; Boston 98; Portland, Maine, 95; Louisville 98.4; Baltimore 99; Philadelphia 100; Pittsburgh 96; Cleveland 96; Toledo 98; Columbus 100; Albany 98; Syracuse and Binghamton, N.Y.; New York City 95.9; Chicago 96.1; Hartford, Conn., 97; and Richmond, Va. 101.

The hottest spots were Waldorf, Md., and Strasburg, Va.—both 103.

For Chicago it was the fifth straight day of temperature records and the 18th straight day of 90-degree plus temperatures from persons from their homes.

Seven inches fell in five hours Sunday at Sinton, and 8 inches fell on high ground near Robstown. Both communities are near Corpus Christi.

It was Detroit's and New York's second consecutive record temperature for the date. It's been 90

August Dries Up, Blows Out

Total Rain for 123 Days Measures Only

6.30 Inches; Equals Usual 1 Good Month

August is leaving today as a dead pigeon—one that suffered a heat stroke and died of thirst.

And its no wonder the poor pig got the bird from the weatherman. The guy entrusted with the keeping of the sunshine and rain, heat and cold, snow and hail, has been stinging with the moisture that has fallen four months' worth of rain since the start of the month.

Lewis K. Gough of Pasadena, Calif., national commander of the organization, told convention delegates in his report that while the proposed 1954 budget gives the Air Force 114 wings, 23 wings have been added to the Air National Guard and Air Reserve.

"Over-all, greater combat strength should be realized through a reduction in lead time, better utilization of personnel and equipment and by the elimination of waste and duplication," Gough said in his report prepared for delivery.

An Air Force wing is a combat plane plus non-tactical groups for supply, maintenance and such.

Here are the rainfall figures for the summer periods of the past three years, in inches:

	1953	1952	1951
May	2.61	2.77	3.08
June	.64	1.68	14.95
July	1.66	2.93	9.36
August	1.30	7.64	7.88

But, to make the matters even worse, Sedalia has actually had only 5.49 inches of rain these past four months, because the rest of the moisture that fell—to give a 6.21 total—came in such small dribs and drabs it didn't count. That included days when the rainfall measured less than .11 of an inch.

Technically, there have been 22 rains here since May 1, but actually only 10 rains that were over .11 inch.

Here are the days of the summer that had rain and the amounts, in inches, that fell:

More Mystery On Salvaging The Enterprise

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Belgian representative of a London insurance adjustor firm said today salvage operations for bringing up more money from the sunken Flying Enterprise have been halted until next year because of bad weather.

Hamilton Mack, manager of the Belgian branch of Tyler and Co., told of this interruption in a project on which already has yielded about $100,000 worth of soiled U.S. and British currency. Tyler and Co. has been financing the job.

Mack said the little Italian salvage vessel Rostro, which had recovered the money and sent it to a Brussels bank to be dried out and counted, had left Belgium last week for an "unknown destination" after calling off further diving operations on the sunken American freighter this year.

This conflicted with a story the Rostro's salvage crew chief, Mario Rafaeli of Genoa, Italy, told reporters last week. He said he was heading his vessel back to the spot where the Flying Enterprise lay split in two under 40 fathoms (240 feet) of water in the English Channel.

And the ship broker handling the unloading of the waterlogged treasure said he expected the Rostro back in three or four weeks with more bundles of money.

All of this only added to a mystery which has started to bubble up around the Flying Enterprise.

British navigators said the Rostro has appeared to be working several miles from the spot where the freighter slipped under the waves in a winter storm 19 months ago.

Officials of the Ibsrandsen Co., which owned the Flying Enterprise, also were reported mystified by the reports of the recovery of the dollars and pounds — money consigned originally by Swiss banks to New York banks.

C. of C. Sends Plaques To Bands at the Fair

Plaques will be sent by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce to the 24 high school bands performing at the Missouri State Fair.

Rodney Polson, superintendent of the high school bands at the State Fair, in a letter to Chester A. Brown, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, thanked the Chamber of Commerce on behalf of the State Fair and band department and said that he hoped the organization would continue this prize as encouragement to the bands. It will definitely aid in the success of the future band programs at the State Fair, Mr. Polson stated.

Reds May Free 500 More GIs Than Promised

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Another 150 Americans, mostly sergeants and officers, were freed today amid indications the Communists may send back up to 500 more Americans than the 3,313 originally promised.

The Reds also released 250 South Koreans on this 27th day of the Korean War prisoner exchange.

The Communists promised to send back 400 prisoners tomorrow — 100 Americans, 25 British, 20 Turks, 5 Australians and another 250 South Koreans.

One of the Britons to be handed over Tuesday will be Lt. Col. James P. Carne, top-ranking British officer held by the Communists. Red newsmen said Carne, commander of a battalion of one of Britain's great fighting units — the Gloucestershire Regiment — was captured in April 1951 in the fierce Imjin river battle.

Surrounded by Reds, most of the men of Carne's 1st Battalion were killed or captured in a gallant stand against overwhelming forces.

There was no announcement of what was discussed.

The meeting was called at Communist request.

Returning Americans Monday raised hopes that the Reds would return more U. S. soldiers than they originally promised.

The Reds have returned 2,827 Americans, leaving 486 still scheduled for repatriation, according to their early figure.

But liberated Americans who were at Kaesong over the weekend said more than 1,000 non-Korean POWs were still awaiting repatriation at the Red collecting center just north of here.

They said most of the men were American and British sergeants and officers.

The Reds said recently that their 3,313 total did not include some POWs captured in the last days of the war.

Lt. Maxey H. Hall Jr. of Indianapolis, Ind., said 290 American officers were at Kaesong. He said he had no idea how many enlisted men were being held there.

Sgt. I.C. Earl Dantzler of Richmond, Va., said more than 500 non-commissioned officers, mostly Americans, are awaiting return at Kaesong.

Other repatriates reported that many of the Allied prisoners awaiting repatriation were soldiers who had been sentenced to jail terms for alleged offenses while in captivity.

The Reds promised Saturday to return all U. N. POWs who want to go home, including any convicted on Red charges.

One American said that 80 to 105 "die-hard reactionary" prisoners who had been handed jail terms will be held in a special heavily guarded tent city south of Kaesong.

for the services, after which it will be taken to Neosho for burial in the IOOF Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Court and Arthur, Versailles.

Burial will be in the church cemetery.

The body is at the Scrivner Funeral Home.

San Francisco Opera Director Dies On Podium

San FRANCISCO, Calif.—Giacomo Merola, 72, colorful founder and musical director of the San Francisco Opera Company, collapsed and died yesterday while conducting an outdoor concert by the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

Leading a selection from "Madame Butterfly," one of his favorites, he pitched forward at the feet of his musicians.

Eggs Didn't Serve As An Ax For POWs

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (UPI)—"Eggs" and "ax" may sound the same to a Chinese who speaks little English, but to Americans 500 pounds of eggs doesn't get the wood chopped.

Lt. William P. Wyatt of Venice, Calif., freed today by the Reds, told the story:

The Americans needed an ax to chop wood.

They badgered the Reds for months for one, but were told it was hard to get supplies from China.

Finally a Chinese official told them in broken English he located "ax" but needed six men to carry it back from a barge on the Yalu River.

Warning them to be careful, he led them to the bridge—and the men saw 500 pounds of eggs they had to carry back to their POW camp.

Missing Pair Turns Up Tired But Uninjured

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—A one-time Chicago opera singer and his dancer wife, missing in remote central Australia for nearly a week, have turned up exhausted but uninjured.

The former Chicago Opera Company tenor, Victor Carrall, and Mrs. Carrall, a choreographer known professionally as Beth Dean, said they spent five nights in a cave near Ayres Rock after their car got stuck during a rainstorm. They walked into Ernaboola mission south of Alice Springs Saturday night.

He identified the victims as his wife, Mrs. Hattie Deen Krizanich, 35, and these children: Janet Lee, 10; Paul Jr., 8; Larry, 6; Karl Edward, 2, and Shirley, 6 weeks.

"I got up early to look for a job," sobbed Krizanich. "I walked out of the house and was in the rear of our lot for something like 30 minutes. I heard children crying but thought they were the neighbors'. Everything was quiet in the house when I left.

"When I returned the whole back of the old two-story frame house was a mass of flames. I tried to get in, but clouds of black smoke that filled the stairway drove me back."

Deny State Department Refused to Allow Bible Balloon Barrage

DETROIT (UPI)—Seven-year-old Annette Kuzdal can't swim but still she splashed into the Detroit River yesterday and saved the life of her father, Peter, 48.

Annette was sitting on the beach when Kuzdal suffered a heart attack and fell face down in shallow water. She yelled when she saw him floating and kept on yelling as she waded into the water.

She reached her father and held his head above water for five minutes until two policemen heard her shouts.

Kuzdal recovered from the attack.

Educator Has Heart Attack Over Weekend

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Lee M. Thurston, 57, U. S. commissioner of education, suffered a heart attack over the weekend and was described as being critically ill early today.

Dr. Thurston, a former superintendent of public instruction in Michigan, was chosen commissioner of education by President Eisenhower and took over July 2.

He is a patient at Georgetown University Hospital.

Deny State Department Refused to Allow Bible Balloon Barrage

BONN, Germany (UPI)—A U. S. High Commission official denied last night that the State Department had refused a church group permission to launch a barrage of Bible-laden balloons over Iron Curtain countries.

The Rev. Dr. Carl McIntire of Collingswood, N. J., president of the International Council of Christian Churches, charged in Amsterdam yesterday that the State Department had refused permission to float the Bibles from the U. S. occupied zone of Germany. The head of the Protestant organization wired President Eisenhower for "assistance."

Alfred V. Boerner, public affairs director for the High Commission, said, "actually, the council needs only clearance by German authorities. The only question is whether the State Department should intervene in helping the council obtain such German clearance."

He said the department had been asked its attitude and a reply was awaited.

St. Louis (UPI)—The outdoor Municipal Opera ended its 35th season last night with a total attendance for the 88 performances of 697,364.

This was 26,906 less than attended last year.

Opera officials attributed the decline to extreme hot weather in June and early July and to many major strikes in the area which reduced the earning power of possible customers.

It was the second year in the opera's history that no performance was rained out. Twice rain delayed shows but the performances were completed.

Two World Marks Fall As Bill Harrison Wins Stock Car Race

Pete Peterson, Leading at 64 Laps, Crashes Into Fence; Winner Sets Mark For 100 Miles; Derr Sets 1-Lap Record

The world's stock car automobile racing record books will be changed since the 100-mile racing event held Sunday. Two more records were set on the Missouri State Fair mile race track. The 100-mile event time was lowered nearly five minutes and the mile time trial record dropped three and 50-hundredths seconds.

Ernie Derr, Ft. Madison, Iowa, driving an Oldsmobile had the fastest time for the trials of :51.15 seconds to set a new mark. The record was formerly held by Herschel Buchanan, Shreveport, La., who set the time on the Nashville, Tenn., mile track at :54.65 seconds in 1950.

The 100-mile race time was broken when Bill Harrison, Topeka, Kan., driving a 1952 De Soto Fire Dome, crossed the finish line in 1 hour, 29 minutes, 21.24 seconds. The old world record was set in Sedalia on Aug. 24, 1952 when Marvin Copple, Lincoln, Neb., banker, took the race in 1 hour, 34 minutes, .33.04 seconds.

Peter Peterson, Chicago, Ill., driving a Hudson, was leading the pack of 24 cars on the 64th lap when a right front tire blew out. The car leaped into the air and crashed into a ten-foot cyclone wire fence, wrapping the wire around the car. Peterson was not injured and his car not badly wrecked, but he was unable to continue the race. Timers on the electric timing device said if the accident had not occurred they were confident the time would have been lower than it was.

The next fastest times made in the trials, other than Derr, were: Bill Harrison, first; Ernie Derr, second; Marvin Copple, third; Sonny Helms, Des Moines, Ia., fourth; Gene Brown, Ft. Worth, Tex., fifth; "Shorty" Eberts, Kansas City, sixth and Art Dishingen, Kansas City, seventh.

Yesterday's Games-- 22 Homers Set Five Records In Nat. League

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

National League sluggers went wild yesterday, blasting 22 home runs to set five new records and the two others.

Brooklyn's Dodgers walloped the St. Louis Cardinals 20-4 and then saw their league lead cut to 10 games when the Milwaukee Braves trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates 19-4 and 11-5.

In the American, New York's 8½-game margin over Chicago remained intact after the Yankees split a double-header with the White Sox, winning 10-6 and losing 1-0.

But the spotlight was on the senior circuit, where these marks were recorded:

Major league record tied: eight home runs in one game, by Milwaukee. Seven teams had hit seven.

Twelve homers hit in double-header, by Milwaukee. The Giants hit nine in 1939.

National League records set: 1. Eight homers in one game, by Milwaukee. Seven teams had hit seven.

1. Twelve homers hit in double-header, by Milwaukee. The Giants hit nine in 1939.

3. Twelve home runs in two successive games, by Milwaukee. Pittsburgh hit 10 in 1925.

4. Twenty-eight home runs on the road, by Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews, who topped three yesterday for his 41st, 42nd and 43rd of the season. Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner hit 25 on the road in 1949.

5. A hundred runs scored by Stan Musial of the Cardinals for the 10th consecutive season to break his own league mark.

National League records tied:

1. Twelve runs in the seventh inning, by Brooklyn. Chicago's Cubs scored 12 May 28, 1925.

2. Five runs batted in by Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella to give him 122 for the season. Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs set the record of 122 RBIs for catcher in 1930, later tied by Walker Cooper, Giants, in 1947.

Spearheaded by rookie Jim Pendleton's three homers in the first game and three by Mathews in the twin bill, the Braves practically assured themselves of second place.

Home runs by Alvin Dark, Bobby Thomson, Wes Westrum and Daryl Spencer powered the Giants to a 10-1 victory over Chicago but the Cubs came back to win the second game 6-2.

The game was halted at the end of the eighth because of darkness. Sam O'Key Burgess' ninth-inning homer gave the Phillies a 4-3 night victory and a sweep of the double-header with Cincinnati. Karl Drews won his eighth in the Phillips' first year performance. But whether he will develop into the cool field general that made Heinrich worth his weight in footballs is the big question.

Ranked in line behind Lederman as prospective quarterbacks are Dean Rokey, an understudy on the job for two seasons, and Jerry Redmond, a 200-pound sophomore.

Another sophomore who may carry a load of husky hopes on his shoulders is halfback Mike Monroe, a 196-pound speedster who is rated as one of the best prospects ever to come out of the Seattle prep league.

Monroe has a 50-50 chance of cracking the starting lineup before the season is over. Otherwise, the veterans are expected to pack the punch. Some are rated tops; some so-so. The defense should be as good as most.

Chiefs Meet Boonville Tonite For B-J League Championship

Sedalia Chiefs and Boonville to be something of a battle and meet at Liberty Park tonight at the top game of the season.

The Chiefs won the championship of the first half of the season and Boonville took the title for the last half. Now the two are trying to decide the crown wearer to meet their champs of other leagues in further playoffs.

No lineup has been announced for the Chiefs tonight, but George Thompson will have all his players on hand to pick the crew he believes will be the strongest and all his pitchers are expected to be ready as needed.

The players are to report at the park at 6:30 p.m. for practice prior to the battle.

First of Series on Grid Prospects--

Washington Has No Startling Stars for Opening of Season

SEATTLE (AP)—Gone are the days when an All-American arm or pair of legs carries the University of Washington to victory.

Like one of those new Dior skirts, the 1953 model may come up short in the eye-catching department.

There are no backfield prospects like ace passer Don Heinrich of 1950 and 1952 or rabbit-footed Hugh McElhenny of 1951, who alternated as All-Americans.

Five runs batted in by Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella to give him 122 for the season. Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs set the record of 122 RBIs for catcher in 1930, later tied by Walker Cooper, Giants, in 1947.

Ranked in line behind Lederman as prospective quarterbacks are Dean Rokey, an understudy on the job for two seasons, and Jerry Redmond, a 200-pound sophomore.

Another sophomore who may carry a load of husky hopes on his shoulders is halfback Mike Monroe, a 196-pound speedster who is rated as one of the best prospects ever to come out of the Seattle prep league.

Monroe has a 50-50 chance of cracking the starting lineup before the season is over. Otherwise, the veterans are expected to pack the punch. Some are rated tops; some so-so. The defense should be as good as most.

The starting ends—more than 13 feet of them—are rated ace high. George Black, an aggressive 6-foot 5 pass snagger, is being boomed as the team's No. 1 prospect for all-star honors. He caught six touchdown passes last year. Doug McClary, 6 feet 8, is back for his third season at the other end.

The rest of the picture: good running halfbacks and a fair fullback; an excellent pair of tackles but thin on reserves; only one regular guard; good at center.

Washington opens the season with non-conference games with Colorado and Michigan. The consensus: to finish around the middle of the pack in the Pacific Coast Conference.

It will be a team with a new coach looking for a new threat. Cherberg, moving up from freshman coach to take the reins from Howie Odell, has 13 regulars of last year's two platoons to sift for his 11 starters. The squad looks strong in spots, but the big question hangs over the successor to Heinrich in the all-important "T" quarter-back spot.

The No. 1 prospect to Heinrich is a left-handed sophomore smoothie, Sandy Lederman, of Santa Monica, Calif., whose passing record as a freshman last year was as good as Heinrich's first year performance. But whether he will develop into the cool field general that made Heinrich worth his weight in footballs is the big question.

Wichita moved into the finals by trouncing the Military District of Washington Colonials, 5-3, last night. The Colonials, defending champions, led until the eighth inning when Wichita rallied for four runs.

Merry-Go-Round
Hungary Quietly Calls Her
Communist Minister Home

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Just as mysteriously as he came to Washington, Dr. Emil Weil, Hungarian Communist minister to the United States and the doctor who helped drug Cardinal Mindszenty, has departed.

Without explanation, Dr. Weil has been replaced by Charles Szarka, for five years in the Hungarian diplomatic service and without any special political background, though he must be a member of the Communist party in order to hold such an important post.

Dr. Weil was first exposed in this column on Jan. 2, 1952, as having been high up in Communist politics and as having participated in the Mindszenty trial at which the famed prelate finally gave an astounding phony confession of his alleged underground operations. Mrs. Weil was reported by this writer to have been the personal physician to Premier Rakosi and Dr. Weil was the head of the Budapest Chamber of Doctors, the AMA of Hungary.

It was also revealed that he had been especially picked to come to the United States to promote Communism among Hungarian-Americans or at least keep them friendly to the Red regime in Budapest. Among other things this writer told how Dr. Weil attended a meeting in the Barbizon-Plaza Hotel in New York on Kossuth Day, Nov. 9, 1952, where the main speaker was Carl Marzani, former State Department official convicted for failing to reveal he was a Communist. After the speech, at which Marzani attacked Eisenhower, Truman, Stevenson and Omar Bradley, Dr. Weil made a contribution toward a campaign to "deliver the American people from slavery," and on his way out the legation staff gathered up various Communist booklets and other propaganda sold at the rear of the meeting.

Many diplomats felt that this was a violation of diplomatic rules which forbid a foreign ambassador from participating in American politics. However, the State Department consistently declined to ask for Dr. Weil's recall, on the ground that the Hungarian government would then demand the recall of the American minister in Budapest.

Reasons behind Dr. Weil's recall to Hungary are shrouded in secrecy, but according to the diplomatic grapevine, the Hungarian government felt that the publicity given him in the U.S. had destroyed his usefulness. There are reports that Dr. Weil will now teach at the University of Budapest, but this is unconfirmed. He may face the same fate as others connected with the Mindszenty trial, for though they carried out the bidding of their Communist masters, dead men tell no tales.

McCarthy's Robert E. Lee

Robert E. Lee, who achieved fame two years ago, not because of any association with the Civil War general, but because of the McCarthy post-card campaign to defeat Senator Millard Tydings in Maryland, is being considered for the extremely important post of Comptroller General of the United States.

Lindsay Warren, one of the grand old men of Washington, is planning to retire as comptroller general, and Lee is being pushed hard by powerful Republican friends to take his place.

The General Accounting Office, which the comptroller general heads, was set up by Congress for the purpose of auditing and checking on government expenditures. The appointment is for a 14-year term and the appointee cannot be removed. Furthermore, he reports not to the White House but direct to Congress.

Lee, the proposed new comptroller general, figured in the Senate probe of the Tydings-Butler campaign, where it was revealed he had received a check for $5,000 from Alvin Bentley, former State Department official now a GOP congressman from Michigan, whose grandfather helped found General Motors. Lee received the check in the office of Senator McCarthy, took it to Baltimore and used it in a campaign to mail 300,000 post cards to Maryland voters signed by GOP candidate John M. Butler allegedly in his own handwriting.

Later a Maryland court convicted Jon Jonkel, Senator Butler's campaign manager, for failing to comply with the Maryland election laws. The Senate investigating committee showed that checks countersigned by Lee were used to pay for the post-card campaign without properly recording them.

Note — Lindsay Warren, who will retire as comptroller general, formerly served in Congress from North Carolina, has saved the taxpayers millions of dollars by keeping an eagle eye on government accounting—just the opposite of the accounting used in the Maryland election.

France Is Earning Title
New 'Sick Man of Europe'

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Looking at stricken France with any sort of detachment, you cannot help being puzzled by the contradiction between the nation's great potentialities and its actual performance.

Here is a land with many blessings—a balanced blend of agricultural and industrial resources, a geographic location favorable to trade, a skilled labor force, a notable tradition of cultural and intellectual attainment.

By all reasonable measure, France ought to be a leader in Europe and the world. Yet it is not. It has been undergoing progressive enfeeblement since the close of the First World War, and most particularly since World War II ended.

This year it went 37 days without a government. And it has been embroiled in perhaps the worst strike wave since the turbulent "Popular Front" days of 1936. Few sober-minded onlookers would deny it is fitting to call France the new "sick man of Europe."

But what is the malady?

Obviously it is not some superficial ailment that can be cured by ending this strike crisis or changing a government. The cause goes deep.

It goes to some facet of French character, some aspect of the national make-up, which prevents France from dealing realistically with the 20th century world, either on the industrial or the political level.

The French businessman, on the whole, has never fully embraced the methods of mass production, or the technical wonders of the age. His notions of capitalism were out of date in America by 1900. French workers never have gained a fair share of their country's industrial wealth, and it is against this basic inequity that they are really protesting.

French managers perpetuate inefficiency through rigged price schemes. They hoard their profits. They discourage expansion. And, to top it all, they dodge taxes, thus casting a still more intolerable burden on workers' backs.

As if this were not enough, the French have shown almost no stomach for the great world power struggle in which all people are inescapably caught. There are, of course, individual exceptions like Robert Schuman, Jean Monnet and René Pleven. But the generalization holds.

If there were some way to pack up the whole country—man and rock by rock—and cart it off to some South Pacific haven, the French undoubtedly would be all for it.

It's no accident that most French governments fall on a minor issue. Leaders and citizenry alike never can bring themselves to get past minor matters and come to grips with major realities.

The French do not have much more time left for growing up to this tough world. Unless they do, they may find they have condemned their country to a stunted future in which weakness and frustration and an overpowering sense of defeat will be the tragic marks.

Letter Writing Is Best Way To Tie Family Together

By RUTH MILLETT

There are two things that can happen to a family when the children are grown and scattered over the country and parents left alone.

They can keep in close touch with each other and maintain family solidarity, though separated; they can be busy with their own affairs, yet still be very much a family.

Or they can gradually drift apart. The family feeling all but dies and its members have little in common when they do happen to get together.

The main difference between families who maintain a family feeling and those who don't is the effort made to keep in contact through letters.

Those who don't make the effort claim they are busy with their own lives and never find the time to write the newsy letters that maintain family ties.

But it isn't so much a question of time, as of habit. Any halfway intelligent adult can write an interesting letter in 15 minutes.

Writing Worth Time

Isn't it worth an occasional 15 minutes' time to keep in touch with parents and brothers and sisters? Families thereby share a little of their lives with each other.

Haven't you an hour a week to devote to family letters? If you haven't why not borrow an hour from the time you chatter on the telephone with acquaintances who actually mean little to you, or from the time you spend watching television or reading?

Certainly it is worth an hour a week to keep in touch through the years with members of one's own family.

Manners Make Friends

When someone does you a favor and you want to express your appreciation, don't take the easy way out and buy a printed card of thanks and simply sign your name to it. Take the trouble to write your own note in your own words.

No one can suitably express your sentiments but you.

omys has got too deeply and in the wrong place." What Congressman Hyde has in mind is the estimate that for every dollar spent on internal revenue agents' salaries the government gets back $200 in taxes. Recent Commissioner John Dunlap estimated that by hiring a few hundred more gents he could bring it $1,800,000,000 in extra revenue.

For instance, the famous Longchamps restaurant tax case in New York cost the government $20,000 to try in court but brought in $7,000,000 in tax payments.

Actually the tax-paying population of the U.S. has jumped in 20 years from 3,000,000 to around 30,000,000. Yet appropriations have nowhere increased in proportion.

In 1946, the Republican controlled House of Representatives drastically curtailed the hiring of tax agents, and that year the Treasury estimated it lost 2½ billions in cheated taxes which could have been collected with a larger force.

ROSE'S Last Summer

Miriam met him at the door . . . "Rose is dead," she said.

"Don't use any of yourious therapy on me. Baloney. I was decided to sing some old folk songs, and when Miss Henderson, who occupied the adjoining room, objected by pounding on the wall, Rose pounded back so vigorously that she knocked a hole in the plaster.

In the middle of the night she decided to sing some old folk songs, and when Miss Henderson, who occupied the adjoining room,

objected by pounding on the wall,

Rose pounded back so vigorously that she knocked a hole

in the plaster.

By breakfast time she was in an excellent mood. She publicly forgave Miss Henderson for her lousy manners, rotten disposition, and lack of musical appreciation. Miss Henderson did not respond to this act of charity, and by noon she had left bag and baggage, leaving the room

next to Rose vacant for the third time in as many months.

Rose couldn't understand anyone being so petty and she said as much to Mrs. Cushman.

"She paid her rent," said the landlady.

"Money. What's money? I used to throw the stuff away."

"It's too bad you didn't throw a little my way."

Rose was beyond the sordid present. She lay back on the bed and gazed dreamily up at the ceiling and the past. "Did I ever tell you about the party I gave just after 'Anguish' was released?"

"There must have been 400 people and I didn't know one of them."

"Last time it was 300."

"If I'd been any good at figures, I'd be a millionaire right now."

"I spoke with pride and only a trace of regret."

"Rose," Mrs. Cushman said, "I'm going to phone Frank."

Rose was shaken, though she tried not to show it. "Call him. Who cares?"

Rose looked around the walls for reassurance. They were covered with photographs of herself, smiling, sultry, coy, gay; in period costumes and bathing suits; stills and action shots; Rose being kissed, strangled, rescued, fed to the lions, for Rose once had been famous in the films.

"You can't phone Frank," she said finally. "It's Sunday, his day off. I won't talk to him. I'll lock my door. I'll throw things at the window."

Rose laughed heartily. "I've never felt better in my life. The old bat can't stand to see anyone else having a good time."

There was a strong element of truth in this, as there was in so many of Rose's remarks.

"She told me you disturbed the household," Frank said.

"I merely sang. Can't a person even sing? You'd think this was Russia instead of California."

Rose divided all blame for everything equally among the Russians. Mrs. Cushman and the mental hygiene clinic. "Are you going to write down what I say today?"

"This is just a friendly chat. When did you start this bout?"

Rose was silent a moment. "It isn't a bout. Not yet, anyway."

"Let's try to stop it, the way we did last time."

"We?" Rose elevated her eyebrows. "I'm completely independent. I've supported three husbands in my lifetime, never took a cent from any of them. I don't need any help or charity from anyone. I'm expecting a long distance call from central casting any day now."

"Are you going to sit around drinking until it comes?"

"I intended to be charming," Rose said, "but you put my back up. Would you really send for the butterfly net?"

Frank smiled, he couldn't help it. "You don't need one."

His report on Rose covered more than a hundred pages, but it was impossible to separate fact and fiction. About some things, like her three husbands, she was devastatingly candid; other things, like her family, she refused to discuss.

"You know, Rose, I used to go to all your pictures. I thought you were a great actress."

Many Matured Bonds Are Not Collected Yet

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Do you happen to have some musty old documents, bearing the picture of some president of long ago and a lot of fancy engraving around the house?

If you remember seeing something like that, go back and take another look.

You may own part of the $161,282,000 old, matured public debt never collected from the government by the citizens who loaned the money.

The biggest amount of old debt outstanding—$90,450,000 at last count—is matured savings bonds of pre-World War II vintage. These were the "Baby Bonds" sold from March, 1935, to April, 1941. The last of them matured in April 1951, and ceased to bear interest then.

They have not been extended for an additional 10 years like the later "E" bonds. So if you have any savings bonds with serial numbers that began with any letter A through D, your investment has matured, no longer pays interest, and awaits collection. Nearly 5½ billion dollars of these bonds were issued. The next biggest amount of government securities which have matured and no longer pay interest is the residue of the $2,076,000,000 issued as terminal leave pay to World War II servicemen and women. The last of these armed forces leave bonds matured in October, 1951, but $52,262,000 has not yet been collected from the government.

Maybe you think it is only private citizens who lose track of their investment in government securities.

Not so. Corporations that got bonds during World War II in place of excess profits tax refunds have not got around to cashing in $1,438,624 worth. The last of these refund bonds matured and stopped bearing interest in 1946.

In 1936 the government issued about $1,800,000,000 worth of bonus bonds to veterans of World War I. In that depression year the need for cash was so great that veterans were allowed to cash the bonds almost immediately. But apparently some World War I vets were not very hard up even in 1936, for about $4,557,000 worth of the bonus bonds have never been cashed.

Lumped together in the Treasury's records are $1,376,000 worth of other securities which matured before 1917 but have never been brought in for cash. This grab bag of forgotten wealth might contain government securities dated any time back to 1790.

Some $7,493,000 of World War I liberty bonds and Victory notes, the last of which matured in 1935, have never been presented for cash to the tune of $3,715,000.

What do you do if you find any of these old securities around the house?

Take them to your bank, which will do the rest.

Wild potatoes have been found in Chile and Peru, but they were cultivated by the Indians before the arrival of the Spaniards.

Bob Thomas in Hollywood--

Alfred Drake Steers Clear Of Movies, Sticks to Stage

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Alfred Drake, here for a pre-Broadway run in "Kismet," is warding off the movie offers that come his way. He doesn't want to repeat his film flaccid.

Drake presents a dazzling performance nightly in the Oriental fantasy that will hit New York this fall. The former star of " Oklahoma!" and "Kiss Me Kate" has been talking to a couple of producers about picture work. But he expects to turn down their proposals.

"I like the stage," he explained, "and I think I'm fairly accomplished at it. I don't want to repeat the mess I got into the last time I signed for pictures."

Drake was snapped up by Columbia after he made his hit in "Oklahoma!"

"I was expecting to be drafted," the actor explained. "I thought I had better pick up some easy money before I had to leave for the Army. So I signed. Then it turned out that I was 4F. But I was stuck with the Columbia contract."

"Harry Cohn (Columbia boss) had me into his office. He asked me what kind of pictures I would like to make. I said that I wasn't handsome—would never give Tyrone Power or those boys any competition. I told him I was at home in costumes. Perhaps this had something to do with the fact that my forebears are Italian or because of a juvenile idolatry of Douglas Fairbanks Sr."

"I sat for 10 weeks, doing nothing but drawing a handsome salary. Then they told me I was going to do 'Tars and Spars.' They put me in a costume, but it was a sailor's uniform! I looked like a million other guys in the same suit."

The only good thing in the picture was Sid Caesar, I was awful. After that, I turned down script after script, even though I had no right to do so under my contract. Still they kept me under salary."

"Finally Cohn called me into his office. 'Don't you want to make pictures?' he asked. 'No,' I replied. 'So let me go.'

Drake went back to Broadway and continued his string of successes. He may have another one in "Kismet." Most of the L.A. critics agreed the show has the elements of success and that Drake is tops on the musical stage.

"The show has reached the point where the people know the changes have to be made, but everyone hesitates to make the first move," Drake observed.

It would appear that he has confidence in the show. He grew his own beard for it, which would seem to indicate he thinks it will last beyond the eight-week tryout in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"Actually, I grew it for my own comfort and safety," he said. "Having had experience with a variety of beards on the stage, I know how they can itch."

"Besides, I read about a singer at the Metropolitan who swallowed his mustache not long ago. Damned near choked to death."

"I was expecting to be drafted," the actor explained. "I thought I had better pick up some easy money before I had to leave for the Army. So I signed. Then it turned out that I was 4F. But I was stuck with the Columbia contract."

Model Is Bitten By Bug That Makes Her Want to Fight Bulls

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Beautiful New York models get bitten by many bugs—the stage career bug, the television bug, the marriage with a home and kids in the country bug.

But the strangest bug ever to bite a shapely brunette from the Madison Avenue circuit is what is known down here as "mal de montera." Its victim is stricken by an overwhelming desire to become a bullfighter.

It's the bug which bit 23-year-old Bette Ford, who stands 5 feet 3 and weighs 115 pounds. She comes from McKeesport, Pa.

For four years Bette modeled for a noted bathing suit manufacturer. She appeared in radio shows like "Pepper Young's Family" and "Modern Romances," on such TV programs as the "Jimmy Durante Show," "Texaco Star Theater," "Star Theater" and "Ford Theater."

But she couldn't forget a modeling assignment to Bogota, Colombia, where somebody coaxed her into seeing a bullfight. That was where the bug bit her.

She read all she could about the sport—"art," she calls it. She collected gaudy Spanish bullfight posters and plastered them on the walls of her apartment.

Not long ago she made the big break. She turned down a movie contract and came to Mexico City to study the profession of bullfighting.

A pretty American matador is a ready-made drawing card for the plazas of Mexico. But Bette is refusing all offers until she is certain she's ready.

"I want to be really good before I start fighting," she says.

Her teacher is Alfredo Aguilar, one of the most respected men in the profession. Several others of importance are convinced of her ability and sincerity.

She trains hard, studies hard, visits ranches where she practices with calves and larger animals.

Almost daily she and Aguilar work out in an empty ring.

Her teachers think she'll be ready for her first fight in about eight months.

Other American girls have turned to bullfighting recently, though none abandoned a promising theatrical career as Bette did.

Sussex Scholar Claims Richard III Not Guilty

FELPHAM, England, Aug. 31—(AP)—A Sussex scholar wants to wash from the sullied memory of Richard III the blood of the monarch's two nephews.

Dr. E. Horsfall-Ertz said today he is certain King Richard III is innocent of the charges made against him by history.

The evidence was so slight that if he was tried at the Old Bailey, the jury would stop the case," Dr. Horsfall-Ertz asserted.

For those who may have forgotten, Richard III is accused by many—including William Shakespeare—of doing away with two little boys so he could have a clear path to the throne. One of the unhappy youngsters was the boy

King Edward V. This all happened back in 1483 or thereabouts in the Tower of London.

The deformed Richard later fell in the battle of Bosworth on Aug. 22, 1485, and Henry VII, first of the Tudors, became monarch.

One thing seems certain—the two boys were murdered. Therefore, Dr. Horsfall-Ertz thinks he has solved the mystery which he created by absolving Richard III.

He insists Henry VII was the perpetrator of the foul and bloody deed.

"There is strong evidence that it was Henry who bumped off the prince and successfully planted it on poor old Richard. Unfortunately the Tudor propaganda machine successfully laid the crime at Richard's feet and historians have followed like sheep, spreading that story down the ages," he said.

The Sussex scholar placed an "in-memoriam" notice in a newspaper and will repeat it annually:

"Plantagenet—At battle of Bosworth, Aug. 22, 1485, there fell England, king, statesman, soldier, gentlemen deeply mourned."

Feeder Sales Dates Listed For Missouri

Whether farmers are looking for feeder cattle or replacement stock they will find a wide selection at this year's Missouri cooperative feeder cattle sales. The annual sales start September 16 and will run through October 29. In all, some 40,000 calves and 11,000 yearlings will be sold at the 50 odd sales held throughout the state.

These cooperative sales are farmer-owned and operated. With the exception of one place, the local producer's associations own their pens, yards and scales. Very few other cattle ever pass through these yards. Hence, shipping losses are at a minimum.

All cattle consigned to the sales are fresh from the farm on sale day. On arrival at the sale pens, they are numbered and weighed. The cattle are then sorted into uniform groups according to breed, sex, type, quality and condition under the supervision of Missouri Agricultural Extension Service personnel. All cattle are sold at auction by the pound.

Dates and places of sales are Sept. 16, 17 and 18 — Potosi, Sept. 19 — Sedalia.

Here Are Ideas On Beef Herds, Poor Pastures

Here's a few suggestions from a University of Missouri extension livestock specialist on maintaining beef cows where pastures are all but gone.

Sam Rowe says two of the most important feed requirements of beef cows are proteins and minerals. The protein can be supplied in two pounds or more daily of cottonseed meal. And where poor quality pasture such as broom sedge, weeds or brush is available, the cottonseed meal and a simple mineral mix should maintain the cows.

If you are feeding grain, Rowe suggests a ration of five pounds ground corn, three pounds ground oats, and two pounds cottonseed meal. If some pasture is available, this can be reduced to two pounds ground corn, two pounds ground oats, and two pounds cottonseed meal.

Rowe says the combination of corn and oats can be varied to fit individual conditions as long as you feed two pounds or more of cottonseed meal per head daily. However, the cows still need some roughage if nothing more than low quality grass, hay, wheat, or oat straw fed at the rate of 10 to 15 pounds daily. If you use ground corncobs or poor quality hay, add molasses to make it more palatable.

Rowe adds that vitamin A supplement should be added to these rations after 60 to 90 days of feeding to prevent vitamin A deficiency.

Now Is Time to Get Poultry House Ready For Your Pullets

If you want to take full advantage of higher egg prices this fall, plan to house your pullets when in five to ten percent production.

This bit of advice comes from Walter Russell, University of Missouri extension poultryman, who says now's the time to be getting the poultry house ready for your pullets. He suggests cleaning up all equipment, checking for lice and mites, removing droppings from under roosts and taking out caked litter around waterers.

Demo Attacks On Farm Plan To Unite Clan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders, still beset by internal dissension, look for attacks on Republican farm policies to become a rallying point for their efforts to restore party unity at a Sept. 14-15 conference in Chicago.

Farm prices, which recently turned down again after leveling off from previous declines, are certain to be spotlighted at a panel discussion of agricultural problems led by Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell has billed the Chicago meeting as a sendoff for Democratic candidates in next year's campaigns. And high farm price supports appear to be one of the few national issues on which the 21 Democrats up for re-election can agree, almost without exception.

Southern Democrats who were critical of former President Truman and who show no enthusiasm for Adlai E. Stevenson as the presidential nominee again in 1956 can forget their party differences in support of almost any program that promises greater returns for the farmer.

That goes for such expected candidates as Senators Eastland of Mississippi, Ellender of Louisiana, McClellan of Arkansas, Maybank of South Carolina, Robertson of Virginia, Russell of Georgia and Lehman of North Carolina.

It goes also for Southerners more inclined to support the party stand on other national issues, such as Senators Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate minority leader; Sparkman of Alabama, the 1952 vice presidential nominee; Kefauver of Tennessee; and the dozen Democrats from the North and West who are up for re-election. Johnson said in a weekend analysis of problems likely to come before the next session of Congress that the agricultural situation is contributing to "disturbing signs in the nation's economy."

"Farm prices have been falling at a rate far exceeding the drop in consumers' prices," he observed. Noting that inventories are piling up in some industrial lines, he added:

"It is too early to say whether there are merely minor cracks in an otherwise solid economy or whether they represent the beginnings of a trend which could be deleterious to our people."

Thus far, none of these potential 1956 senatorial candidates has indicated he is voluntarily abstaining from the meeting, as Sen. Holland (D-Fla.) said he would do.

Holland said in an interview yesterday he is declining an invitation to attend the Chicago session because he believes the South has nothing to gain there. This was an obvious reflection of Dixie resentment over the civil rights stand taken by the party at last year's convention.

Holland said that until the South is taken into full partnership in the writing of the platform and the selection of presidential nominees, the national party is going to continue to find defects below the Mason and Dixon Line.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), who helped swing Virginia to President Eisenhower in last year's election by refusing to back Stevenson, said he hadn't been invited to the Chicago powwow and had no intention of attending.

However, Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) said he would go if he could arrange his schedule to attend the meeting.

Small Fire Blazes In St. Mary's Nurse Change St. Mary's Nurse Change

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fire broke out in a third floor nurses' change room at St. Mary's Hospital here last night but was soon put out by an intern and a male practical nurse with the help of other nurses.

John Orton, practical nurse, and Dr. Kenneth L. Sireman, had the blaze snuffed with hand extinguishers by the time firemen arrived.

Patrick Curran, battalion chief, said he believed the fire was started by a careless smoker.

I know I speak for the Committee when I say they will be glad to reconsider any application who feels that he is eligible for the reduced prices.

WHAT OF OUR IMPROVED PASTURES

I am frequently receiving inquiries regarding the condition of the improved pasture seeded the past several years. I have one on my desk now from the College.

One caution: our field crops specialists gave early this summer not to graze these new pastures closely during the drought.

Last Thursday I had the opportunity to stop by 2 small pastures that Jim Bradley south of Smithton had seeded last fall. One was to fescue and the other to orchard grass.

Jim had a 3 inch rain a month ago and I found the grass growing fairly well in both fields.

There was even quite a bit of ladino clover in the fescue. Of course, they had not been injured by grazing though he had needed the pasture badly.

A farmer south of town was by the office recently and I asked him how his 3 year old seeding of orchard grass and ladino had come along. He said he thought it was about dead. I stopped by the field Thursday and it appeared that much of the grass was gone.

Another man was in the office Saturday asking about his. He said it was so bare an ant walking across it looked like a jack rabbit.

I agreed that it was probably gone but suggested waiting for rain before discising it up.

KIRKSVILLE, Missouri — A federal grant of $23,800 has been awarded Kirkville College of Osteopathy and Surgery for extension of training and service for cancer and diseases of the heart and arteries.

President Morris Thompson said the grant is the third received from the U. S. Public Health Service. Under a previous grant the college has conducted clinics in Kirkville, Milan, Moberly and Brookfield.

Weldon Fork Is Dry

PRINCETON, Missouri — The Weldon Fork of the Grand River is dry.

It is the first time since the drought of 1934 that the 100-yard wide stream has dried up in its full course through Mercer County.

With farm ponds and cisterns dry, many Mercer County farms are being forced to haul their water supplies from long distances. One of the favorite sources for water is Lake Paho, built by the state Conservation Commission.

Says Domestic Reds Worse Than Any Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Brownell said today domestic Communists are "a greater menace now than at any time" and that "I suppose there are more in labor unions than anywhere else."

In a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, Brownell said the Reds "have gone underground since the Smith Act trials started. They are better organized, and detection is more difficult."

Eleven top Communist officials were convicted in 1949 of conspiring to violate the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to teach or advocate forcible overthrow of the US government.

Brownell said the Communist party has lost about 75,000 members, bringing it down to about 25,000, since that trial and several others which followed it. But the 75,000, he added, "are obviously subject to the propaganda of the Communist agents."

The party members who remain, he said, are "organizing their forces more effectively. . . . (and) their espionage activities are much more underground than they were."

In response to a question, he said there was no early prospect that any of the unions expelled from the CIO several years ago on ground that they followed the Communist line would be put on the attorney general's list of subversive organizations.

Brownell was asked whether the Reds were "not concentrated in the city." He replied "No."

There was no mention of the name of J. B. Matthews, former staff director of the Senate investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). Shortly after Matthews was hired by McCarthy, the American Mercury published an article in which Matthews wrote that "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestants clergymen."

In the public uproar which followed, McCarthy defended Matthews. But after President Eisenhower assailed the statement, the senator accepted Matthews' resignation.

Matthews has contended he can document his article, which also said most Protestant clergymen are loyal. He has been promised a hearing before the House Un-American Activities Committee. No date has been fixed, but it seems certain no hearing will be held before October.

Former Husband Of Actress Barbara Payton a Freed POW

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP) — Air Force Capt. John Payton Jr., former husband of motion picture actress Barbara Payton, was freed from Communist captivity today.

The handsome, brown-haired flier said "It figures" when told his former wife is married to actor Tom Neal.

The last he knew, said Payton, "she was getting a divorce" from actor Franchot Tone.

Payton, of Burlington, Iowa, was a navigator aboard a B-26 light bomber shot down near Pyongyang May 30, 1952.

States Collect Extra $85 Million In Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 48 state governments last year collected a record $10,452,000,000 in taxes—or an average of $68.04 from each American.

Reporting this yesterday, the Census Bureau said the fiscal 1953 total was $85 million dollars more than was collected in the previous year. Most states end their fiscal years on June 30.

The bureau noted that the figures do not include local government taxes, which on a nationwide basis total nearly as much as state revenues.

Increase Reported In Navigation Waves Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Administration today said a survey of air navigation facilities for the year ended last June 30 showed:

A 14,000-mile increase, to 52,000 miles, in the total length of direct airways using the new radio range called VOR (very high frequency, omni-directional range).

A 2,000-mile boost to 20,000 miles in alternate VOR airways, allowing faster traffic in and out of busy airports.

A 4,000-mile step-up to 19,000 miles in oceanic routes.

Missouri's Budget System At Stake In Veto Test

The executive budget procedure of Missouri state government will be virtually destroyed if the courts hold unconstitutional Governor Donnelly's veto of a $9.25 million bonus school appropriation. Missouri Public Expenditure Survey declared today.

The state's executive budget depends upon the governor having veto power extending to all appropriations, the tax research group explained. It added that the exception of any major appropriation from the veto power would render it next to impossible for a governor to exercise responsibility for a balanced budget.

The Springfield (Mo.) school board, joined by the other school groups, has announced that court action will be instituted to knock out Governor Donnelly's veto of the bonus school appropriation.

Missouri is one of 40 states using the executive type of budget procedure, the Survey said in a report dealing with the fiscal aspects of the planned test of the veto power.

Under the executive budget system, the Survey explained, the governor must assemble appropriation requests of all state agencies to submit to the legislature, but before submitting them, he must either reduce them so they will fall within estimated revenues or recommend more taxes to finance them. Then, after the legislature has acted on appropriations, the governor has the responsibility of exercising his veto power to the extent necessary to keep state finances sound.

If Veto Is Not Upheld

Loss of the veto power over school appropriations, the Survey explained, would mean that if "a governor recommended a budget within estimated revenues and school appropriations brought total appropriations above revenue estimated, he could only balance the budget by vetoing or reducing other appropriations sufficiently to offset the higher school appropriations."

This could severely restrict other services and functions, the Survey said.

The Survey said the state Division of Public Schools submitted no request for inclusion of a bonus appropriation for this biennium in the governor's budget and that the Division would have little incentive to do so in the future if the governor had no power to determine whether or not it would be approved.

School appropriations, the Survey explained, would be determined exclusively by the legislative branch of state government while other appropriations would be determined by judgment and action of both legislative and executive branches.

This would mean, the research group, said, that a governor not having had a part in the advance

Board Starts Checking Old German Dollar Bonds In Default

NEW YORK (AP) — A new German-American validation board will start tomorrow the task of examining and verifying ownership of old German dollar bonds which have been in default since the outbreak of World War II.

The board announced yesterday that it had set up offices at 30 Broad St. in New York's financial district.

Trading in some 90 German issues will resume as soon as valid bonds and rightful owners have been determined by the board to establish a market value and permit orderly buying and selling.

Russia Has Refused To Send An Agent To Talks On Austria

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has refused to send a representative to a meeting, suggested by the Big Three Western Powers to open today in London, to try to complete work on a peace treaty for Austria.

The State Department, making public the Soviet refusal late Saturday, said it was based on "filthy" and "insincere" grounds.

Among other things, Moscow said the problem was not one which deputy foreign ministers could handle, as the United States, Britain and France had proposed.

FREEDOM VILLAGE (AP) — A Marine lieutenant, the proud father of twin boys 26 months old, returned to freedom today and sadly said he still doesn't know their names.

Lt. Robert J. O'Shea of Merion, Pa., an aerial observer with the 1st Marine Division, was shot down July 3, 1951—the day he received a telegram telling of the birth—but not their names.

He said he did not receive any mail in prison camp.

Impairment of the governor's power to avoid deficits.

"The enactment of additional measures to obtain tax revenues when more than 30 per cent of the national income already goes for taxes," the Survey continued, "is recognized as difficult. To attempt it would without the recommendation of a governor might make it much more difficult."

"As a result of the practice in Missouri of appropriating large sums from accumulated reserves for current purposes, the state's fiscal position is confused. Missouri may be closer than generally realized to having to call for new and increased taxes to meet state government costs which have undergone such tremendous expansion and which seem destined to increase still more."

"The executive budget procedure provides an accepted method for determining tax revenues for state government services as well as for determining appropriations. Destruction, or serious impairment of this system could prove quite disadvantageous to schools in the future."
